Some people think the main purpose of school is to turn children into good citizens and workers, rather than to benefit them as individuals. To what extent do you agree or disagree?

Some people argued that schools built up to help students becoming an upstanding resident and employee more than support them in developing personal interest. While I agree with contention that educating is a beneficial platform to learners, I believe that it is not the best way.

To begin with, educational institutions are locations where help children cultivate good habit such as controlling time, joining in activities in school. Additionally, they are instructed to becoming responsibility person in group class. Besides, teachers can enhancing understanding in problem of students, help them perceive current position. This leads to situation that they will self-create an awareness of the responsibility in studying and apply when entering the workforce.

However, I side with those who think that transforming students into good citizens of educators is not the only purpose and bring benefit. In fact, applying this method for a long time and repeat every school year incidentally devise some disadvantages for children. Learning must go side-to-side with developing emotional and soft skill instead of focusing on rigid time in studying. Without other form, they should not have an opportunity reach full potential and creative during the studying, and also they are "slave". To illustrates. educational institutions can implement some examination which organise in the range of school. Thanks to this event, learners are willing to act independently project to demonstrate ability, knowledge and preferences to others.

In conclusion, school is reliable address where training students to become an upstanding individual in social and own a job. I believe that educational institution will deploy a variety of purpose on useful learning method, raise the quality and valuable of educational background.
