In recent years, many university has been and continued apply more distance educate programs for students instead of face-to-face learning in class. This essay will explore the advantages and disadvantages of both approaches.

Those who believe that implementing distance learning making convenient for student's develop process. With our online programs, you save on travel expenses or select what is vehicle for go to school. Secondly, distance studying provides many course material of other authors, new method to solve problem which they never access in class. This is a perfectly method for work-study students – a individuals only are very little time for universities. They can set up self-time for learning with lecturers while working is not delayed. During the time of Covid-19 disease, online teaching became the most trend for students. Producing classes in Internet via Zoom Microsoft Team, help students drop the likelihood that infection.

However, distance educating appears to be substantial influence to many student's factor. The first reason is that it is a factor which damaging to eyes. Online learning kept every student's eyes which glued to the screen for a long time. This is lead to rising the number of students who being short-sighted more than learning directly in class. Another reason is that student take a non-involved actions precedence over studying in class. Focusing on study in online class is definitely not easy. In fact, they distracted by game, sleep over the class session, skips class, without acquiring knowledge. In addition, they have an excellent grasp of technology to performing fraudulent acts in exams. As a result, the higher gap of knowledge and skill in students will be created, synonym for late to graduate, hardly to find a job. Rather than, offline learning not only reduce harmful actions, improve flexibility, the interaction between human and human, but also fix this measures.

Although distance teaching has become more popular for students, it has brought about too many problem for this to be considered a positive trend. Universities should apply suit education form in each situation.
