

Nowadays, many people use the Internet to get medical advice instead of going to see a doctor. Why is this? Do you think it is a positive or negative development?

In this day and age, an increasing number of people prefer via internet over face-to-face in real-life. In this essay, I will explain reason for this trend and demonstrate that it is a neagative development.

There are two dominant causes of this condition. First, distance health advice is an convenience selection for citizens. With the rapid technological development, they can approach with look for health problem anywhere, anytime which base on smartphone, tablet. Moreover, this is a effective method with individuals who always busy in work. They can using their free time to make an appointment with doctor rather than spending more time on coming to hospital. Additionally, it helps them who does not want leakage both of personal information and sensitive heatlh problem, such as sexually transmitted disease, mental illness. Another point is that it save the money. If anyone is sick and meet doctors, they will still spending money on transporting, buying medicine. Thanks to online meeting, advice, they really drop large expenditure at every paintient visit.

However, it may be right for a little of person, but this is harmful trend for medical sector and population's health. Obviously, what they see, watch, and hear about health treatment methods are not true reflection of the root of problem, maybe a double-edge sword. As a consequent, it is threat more failure in health. To illustrates, during the Covid-19 disease, there were been appeared some information with Covid treatment method in home without doctor or livestreams in facebook, tiktok which told about similar content of "online doctor". The others impaction of this trend is the amount of unemployment in medical which will substantial rise because offline meeting is not a fudamentally chossing of public general. Doctors have not salary for a long time, devise boring, transport to other jobs.