There is a consensus in the part of residents that government should more take care of people aged over 65 than other, however, believed that education for younger generations xứng đáng nhận more than. This essay will examine both views and explain why I lean forward the latter.

On the one hand, there are some reason why people think that authorizes should spend more time on the older population. The first reason is that they received both of financial and social support of authorities. The nations might offer crucial subsidies for accommodation, food, health cares, other handouts for them, under situation they are losted the ability of earns money. The different factor is that they were knowledgeable descendants group in the past. If they did not appear and reveal to anyone about everything, people who borned in 1990 onward would not be a life like today, non-inherit peaceful and education platform. Another reason is that elderly people need their family to look after them. The undeniable fact that they are a group that declined in health, exited psychological issues. Attending to health care for older people reduce their loneliness. Besides, from an ethical perspective, it is a perfectly demonstration for not a dehumanity behaviour.

On the other hand, I side with those who believe that younger people is the deserve case for receiving the attention of authorities. Younger generations are the backbone of a country's every major. Obviously, they can acquire knowledge and solve issues rapidly, flexibility. When government's policy such as health, great educational foundation are completed and benefit, younger individuals will apply into life, economic development. Without focusing more on younger population learning lead to increasing a likelihood many seriously problem to social in general and their family in particular.

In conclusion, while educating for young people is a undeniable issue, I convince that authorities will make right policy for both of elderly and young people.
